Exhibition Design

I am excited by the idea of experience and implementation of design into a site-specific space. My work as a designer looks at evolving concepts beyond digital formats and implemented into physicality. This stems from my passion for graphic design that extrudes beyond primary formats into the exploration of materials and processes. My drive to learn enables me to develop more experimental solutions to a brief. I consider myself as a creative problem solver that approaches every aspect of the design process with rigorous attention.

Education

2014-2017 The University of the West of England
BA (Hons) Graphic Design

My time at university has been focused on understanding the foundations of graphic design and exploring the wide spectrum of formats and materials. I have developed a designer's approach to briefs that involves a diverse range of idea generation methods and allows the evolution of a project to prosper.

2012-2014 University of the Creative Arts
BTEC Extended Diploma - Visual Communications - Merit
This course gave me the opportunity to explore a majority of creative industries, where I gained skills that I applied to studying Visual Communication.

Experience

2010-2017 Summer Event's Retail Manager

Independently in charge of a small team transporting, building and retailing products from a pop-up retail shop through the summer season at European music festival's.

I was meticulous with the point of sale displays, showing creativity with both signage and physical displays. My work was commended by my boss and resulted in better sales than the previous year.

2012-2014 Bluebird Press Wholesale Screen Printers

Printer and Assistant-Printer trusted to work independently and as part of a team with a strict quality check ethic.

Working with clients designs educated me about colour theory and graphics on fabric. I worked within a tight-knit team, relying on one another to work efficiently. Mixing Pantone colours.

2011-2014 Founder of Fresh Press Screen Printing

A self-sufficient business, textile screen-printing for clients, applying business management, stock control and accounts.

My drive as a young adult was invested in creating my own business, designing my own promotion and experimenting with materials and medium. I would handle clients over the phone, performing professionally and adhering to all of their needs and specifications.
